Barbara Burzillo

I left New York City in 1995 after falling in love with the Southwest. Armed with a list of "used to's" & "want to's", I began to explore my many interests. In the process I rediscovered my artistic abilities. Currently residing in New Mexico, I am a self-taught artist. I work in bronze, clay, oils & digital photography. My subjects are varied, however my passion is the human form. I revel in dramatic gestures & colors. Fantasy, whimsy & spiritual symbolism are usually present.

My inspiration comes from my spirituality. I am extremely thankful for the ability to create & share my art. I consider myself extremely fortunate. I re-discovered a self I had long since forgotten. My life has come full circle. I remember who I am & why I am here.

Through this journey of self-rediscovery I have found peace, balance & most importantly me.
